What is the 'Smashed Bumper' of your Digital Experience?

In Richard Eastley's latest blog, he discusses how your customer's digital experience can be the smashed bumper of a new car. Is your digital experience consistent across all of your customer products? Take a screenshot of each of your landing pages across your consumer, business, lending, and wealth customer experiences. Do they all appear to have the bank's standard "look and feel"? Does your bank even have a standard? If the answer is no, then you are failing your customers...
